

A dream to achieve

From the Nile's embrace, a dreamer arose,
In Egypt's heart, where ambition grows
. A child with eyes full of stars so bright,
Dreams unfurled, taking flight.

Yet, economic woes cast shadows tall,
A daunting barrier, a heavy pall.
In the labyrinth of need, dreams deferred,
Yet, a spark of hope within him stirred.

With resilience as his guiding star,
He ventured forth, near and far.
Through trials and tribulations, he fought,
For dreams untold, he sought and sought.

Success kissed his brow after many a try,
Yet, in his heart, more dreams did lie.
A melody of aspirations, a ceaseless hum,
Echoes of hopes that were yet to come.

He soared on wings woven of determination,
Overcoming odds, a testament to his foundation.
Yet, the horizon still beckoned, vast and wide,
A landscape of dreams, on which he'd stride.

As the sun sets on the Cairo skyline,
He wonders what the future will define.
Do you think he will achieve,
In the dance of dreams, can he believe?